Dear Lydia,
I can't believe this is it.
I plan on seeing you this summer.
We must go out & celebrate the ending of H.S. we can reminisce and we can talk about the future.

"We be seeing you,
in all the old familiar places,
that this heart of mine embraces all day through."

EVA IACONO

Dear Dear Lydia,

June 7th 1991

Can you believe that this is really the end?? No not of our friend-ship (you just would never be that lucky!) but High School. I just figured that it would go on for ever and ever and ever and ever and....

Well if memories can keep a person alive I could probably live to be ~~867~~ 867! I have such great memories of you! Just in case you can't remember them let me refresh your memory →

Remember - when we rebuilt the Middle School faculty out of Chess pieces?

- when we were out at Orient and we were afraid that Lorraine would accuse us of being Cannibals for not buying vegetables for dinner
- when we thought it better if we just get off our bicycles and just lay down by the side of the road and die!!
- when we had Terri tow us back to shore while we sunned ourselves in the boat!

we could go on forever but my hand is going to get a cramp (no reflection on you of course!) if I continue! Anyway Lydia, thanks for all the laughs, giggles and snide remarks, they were all great!

I wish you the best of Luck in The Future even though I'm sure you'll do fine!

Keep In Touch, Have A Great Summer!

Love Always,
Jean

P.S.

Typing with Mr. Mazlin was great this year. Without you in the class I don't think I could've stood it anymore. It's been a fun year and I'll always remember you. Best of luck in the future!

...there was a girl named Alice who found herself on the other side of a looking glass.

Here is Tom

intense conversation
on Foreign affairs,
with the school
Brains.

This girl is born
to be a cripple.

"Dear, dear!
How odd everything is today! And yesterday things went on just as usual. I wonder if I've changed in the night! Let me think: was I the same when I got up this morning? I almost think I can remember feeling a little different.

But if I'm not the same, the next question is, 'Who in the world am I?' Ah, that's the great puzzle!" And she began thinking over all the children she knew, that were of the same age as herself, to see if she could have been exchanged for one of them.

Well Lydia,

I think this is the end, but what end!
 This year was wonderful and I will not forget one moment I lived. I had a lot of fun with you in French and slowly I learned to know you.
 If you need any help in French or just in life I'll be always ready to help. Remember me as a friend because that is what you were to me.
 By the way I enjoy your sense of humor too ....!

So take care of you I'll write ...

Remember ...

Love

Françoise

P.S. Read this small paragraph with a "little"
 French accent and you will understand ...

"No, I've made up my mind about it: if I'm one of them, I'll stay down here! It'll be no use their putting their heads down and saying, 'Come up again, dear!' I shall only look up and say 'Who am I, then? Tell me that first, and then, if I like being that person, I'll come up:
 if not, I'll stay down here
 till I'm somebody else.'"

Dearest Syd -

What can I say besides I love you dearly. I have never met anyone quite like you, and I doubt I ever will again. Let's see I know you since I was in 6th grade - remember the Pantomime company? I only got to really know you this year and I'm sorry it wasn't sooner.
You are one of my favorite people, and every time
I hear Bruce I'll think of you. Don't ever forget all the plays esp. Alice. It was great to see you.

The Caterpillar and Alice looked at each other for some time in silence: at last the Caterpillar took the hookah out of its mouth, and addressed her in a languid sleepy voice.

"Who are you?" said the Caterpillar.

Alice replied rather shyly, "I — I hardly know, Sir, just at present — at least I know who I was when I got up this morning, but I must have changed several times since then."

"What do you mean by that?" said the Caterpillar sternly. "Explain yourself!"

"I can't explain myself, I'm afraid, Sir," said Alice, "because I'm not myself, you see."

"I don't see," said the Caterpillar.

"I'm afraid I can't put it more clearly," Alice replied very politely, "for I can't understand it myself, to begin with; and being so many different people in one day is very confusing."

"It isn't," said the caterpillar.

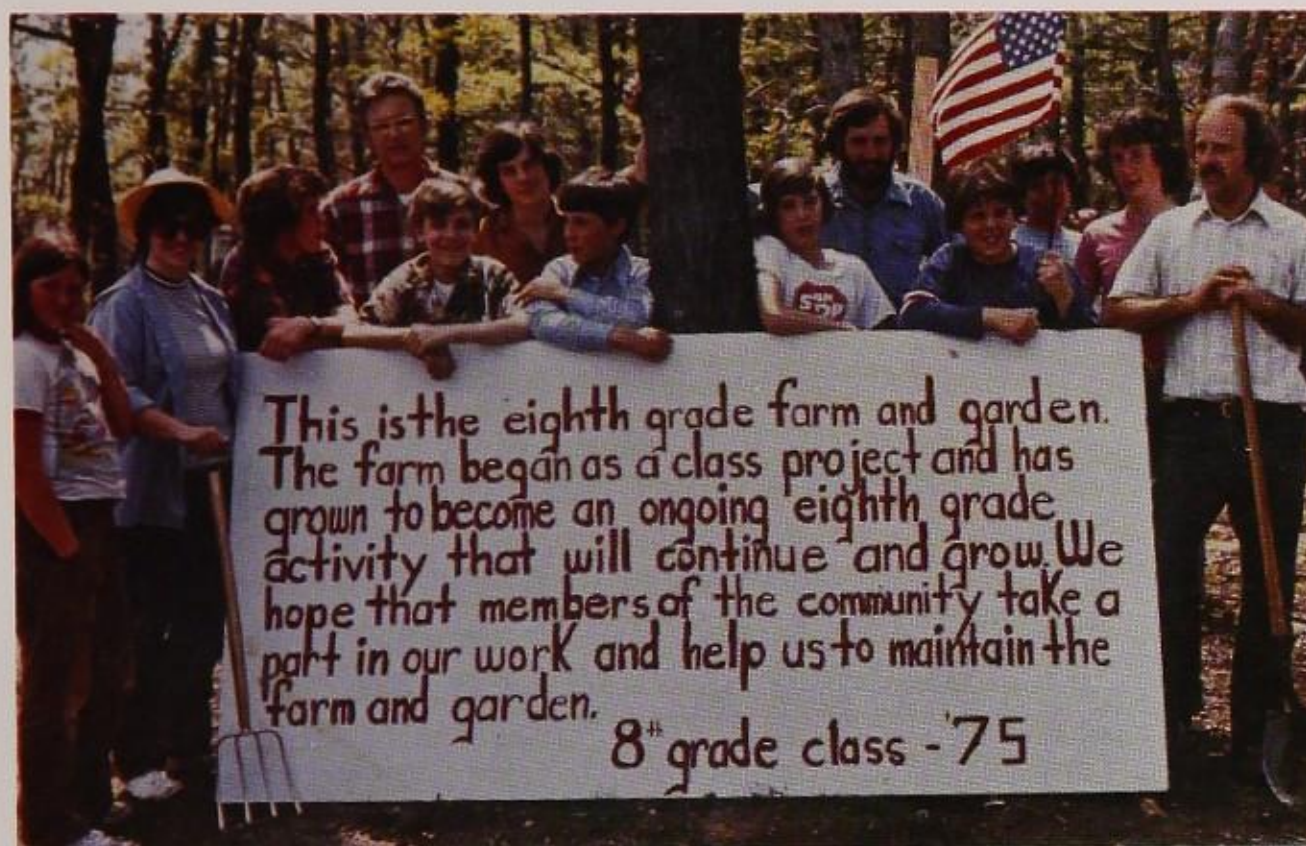

“... found it so yet, but when you turn into a chrysalis — you will someday, you know — and then after that into a butterfly, I should think you’ll feel it a little odd, won’t you?” asked Alice.

“Not a bit,” said the Caterpillar.

“Well, perhaps your feelings may be different,” said Alice. “All I know is, it would feel very odd to me.”

“You!” said the Caterpillar contemptuously. “Who Are You?”

And the Gryphon added, "Come let's hear some of your adventures."

"I could tell you my adventures — beginning from this morning," said Alice a little timidly. "But it's no use going back to yesterday, because I was a different person then."

"Explain all that," said the Mock Turtle.

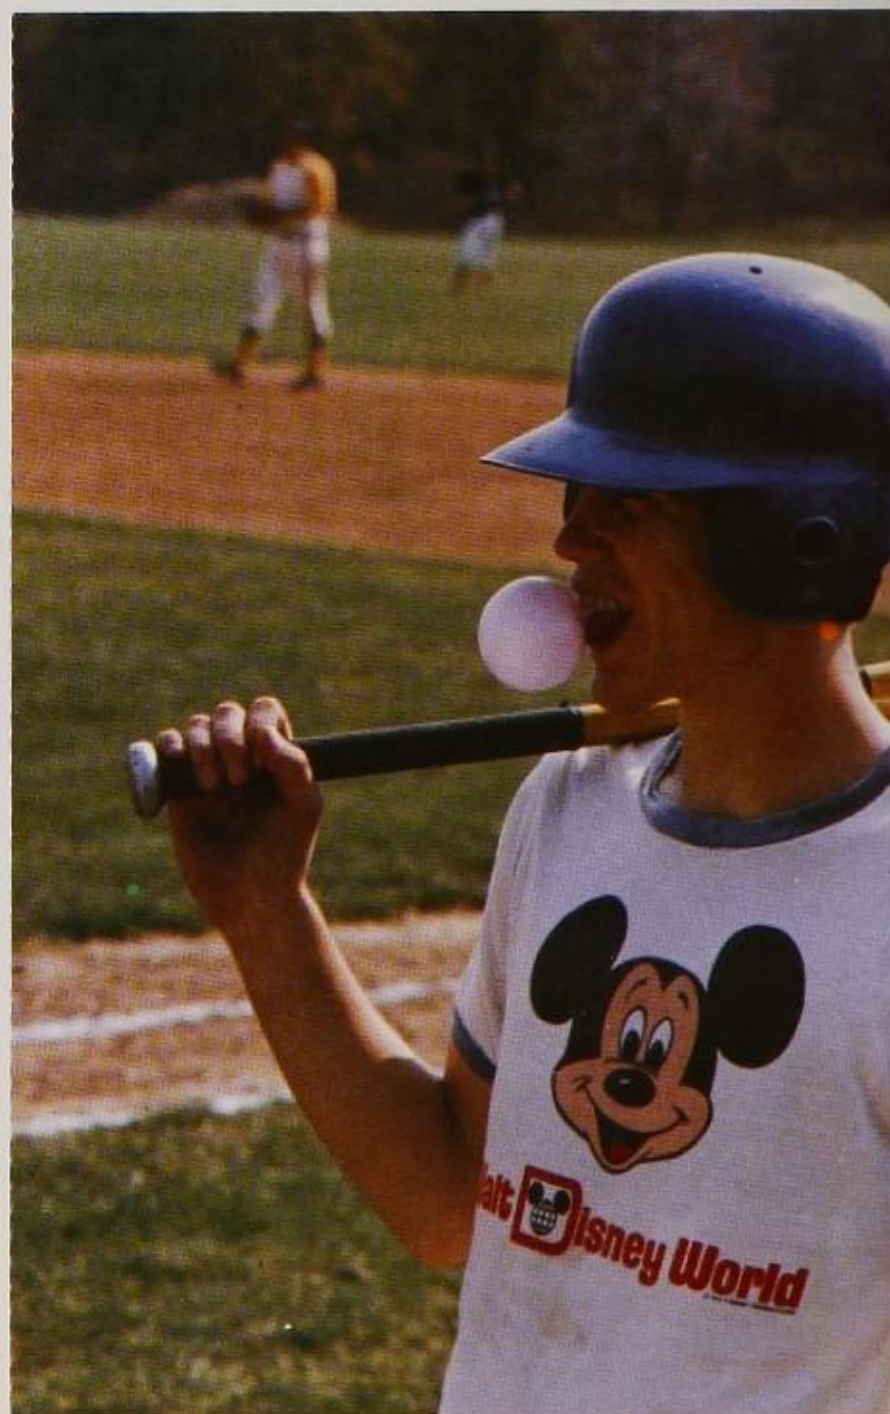

"No, no! The adventures first," said the Gryphon in an impatient tone. "Explanations take such a dreadful time."

This is a picture of me a year before we met... Do you know you were the first person who ever showed me a salamander? That was the beginning I'll write later next to my punk rock image. love you always — Lorraine

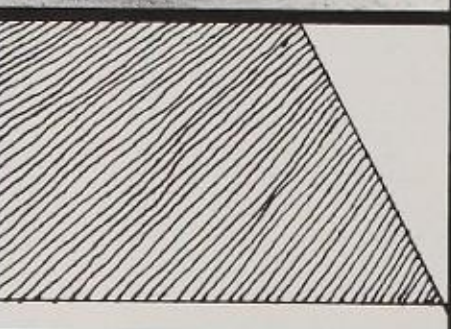

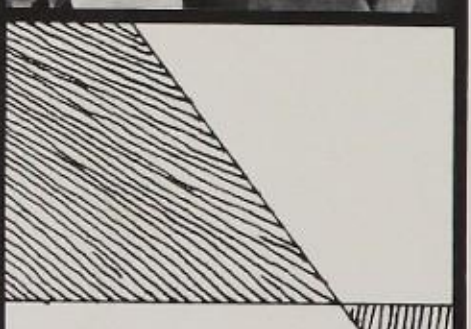

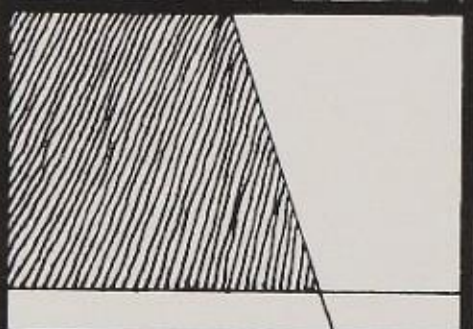

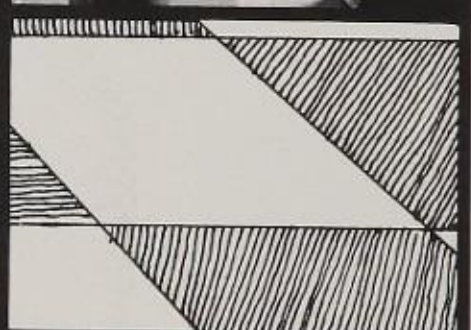

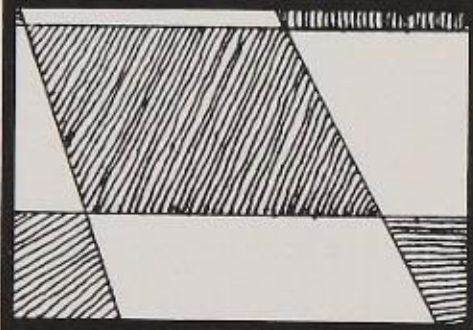

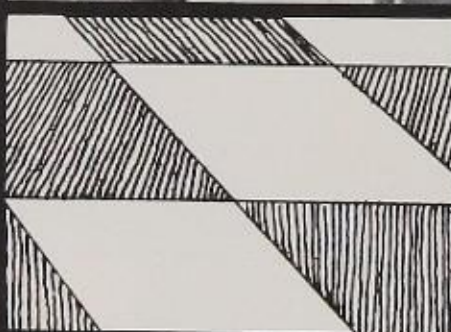

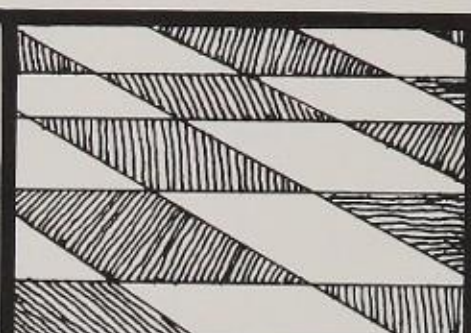

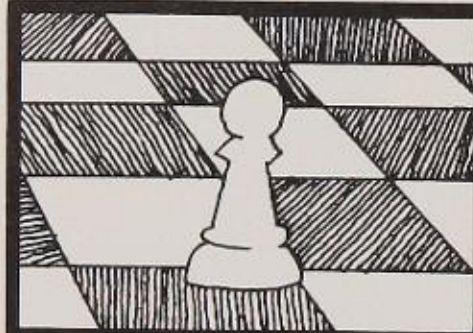

Our high school years are a time of transition — of not only learning facts and formulas, but of learning about ourselves, perhaps even meeting ourselves for the first time. Thrown into a “wonderland,” traveling the path of a pawn on its way to becoming a queen, we are really no different from Alice as she demands, “Who am I?”

"When we were little," said the Mock Turtle, "we went to school in the sea. The master was an old turtle — we used to call him Tortoise —"

"Why did you call him Tortoise, if he really wasn't one?" Alice asked.

"We called him Tortoise because he taught us," said the Mock Turtle angrily. "Really you are very dull!"

"I've been to day-school, too," said Alice. "You needn't be so proud as all that."

"Yours wasn't really a good school then," said the Mock Turtle. "Ours had extras — but I only took the regular course."

What was that?" inquired Alice.

"Reeling and Writhing, of course, to begin with," the Mock Turtle replied; "and then the different branches of Arithmetic — Ambition, Distraction, Uglification, and Derision."

"I never heard of 'Uglification,'" Alice ventured to say. "What is it?"

The Gryphon lifted up both of its paws in surprise. "Never heard of uglifying!" it exclaimed. "You know what to beautify is, I suppose?"

"Yes," said Alice doubtfully: "it means — to — make — anything — prettier."

"Well, then," the Gryphon went on, "if you don't know what to uglify is you are a simpleton."

"And how many hours a day did you do lessons?" said Alice, in a hurry to change the subject.

"Ten hours the first day," said the Mock Turtle: "nine the next, and so on."

"What a curious plan!" exclaimed Alice.

Dear Lydia,
When the years accumulate and I want to conjure up a choice memory from my first year at S.W.R., I will close my eyes tight and think of Lydia inhaling, her finger and cooing "WHO ARE YOU?" I do share a only a little to do with your talents. You will I've really had a pissa hanging out with you because you are a really, truly, and honestly intense, outrageous, ~~not~~ far-out and hip person. I'm glad that we got to be such good friends and I

Alice never could quite make out, in thinking it over afterwards, how it was that they began: all she remembers is, that they were running hand in hand, and the Queen went so fast that it was all she could do to keep up with her: and still the Queen kept crying "Faster! Faster!" but Alice felt she could not go faster, though she had no breath left to say so. And the Queen seemed to guess her thoughts, for she cried "Faster! Don't try to talk!"

Not that Alice had any idea of doing that. She felt as if she would never be able to talk again, she was getting so much out of breath: and still the Queen cried "Faster! Faster!" and dragged her along. "Are we nearly there?" Alice managed to pant out at last.

Nearly there!" the Queen repeated. "Why, we passed it ten minutes ago! Faster!"

Dear Lydia,

Never forget our French class. It's just too good to not reminisce about later. Sorry, I'm not a good speller. We're finally leaving H.S. and Meserve behind. Next year, he'll ask us what history courses we took. Anyway, I'm glad I'm leaving although I'm sort of sorry I never got to know you much. Lydia,
What can I say? We've had a good year (of suffering!) and a lot of happiness too.
For me, it was a year of many new friends and you are a good one. I feel when things were really miserable and there and we could kid around together.
Do you remember? (sounds a little corny?)
The French kids and parties (every other night, dancing), complaining parents, Leonardo and Steg and good ol' Joe (that's cool man, I can see where you're coming from)
Well now that we're FREE, FREE, FREE (of high school anyway)
I hope we still get to be better friends, (I think it's in the cosmos and we should try and share some space). So after "hangin' out" some this summer, keep in touch at college, O.K.?
Much Love
Tim

Dear Lydia,
 I'll always remember the wonderful times
 we had at BOCES -
 especially the computer & doctor Berg & all the other kids. I think you're the only person that realized I was the instigator in all those spitball wars. And you're right.
 I was.

Just at this moment Alice felt a very curious sensation, which puzzled her a good deal until she made out what it was: she was beginning to grow larger again, and she thought at first she would get up and leave the court; but on second thoughts she decided to remain where she was as long as there was room for her.

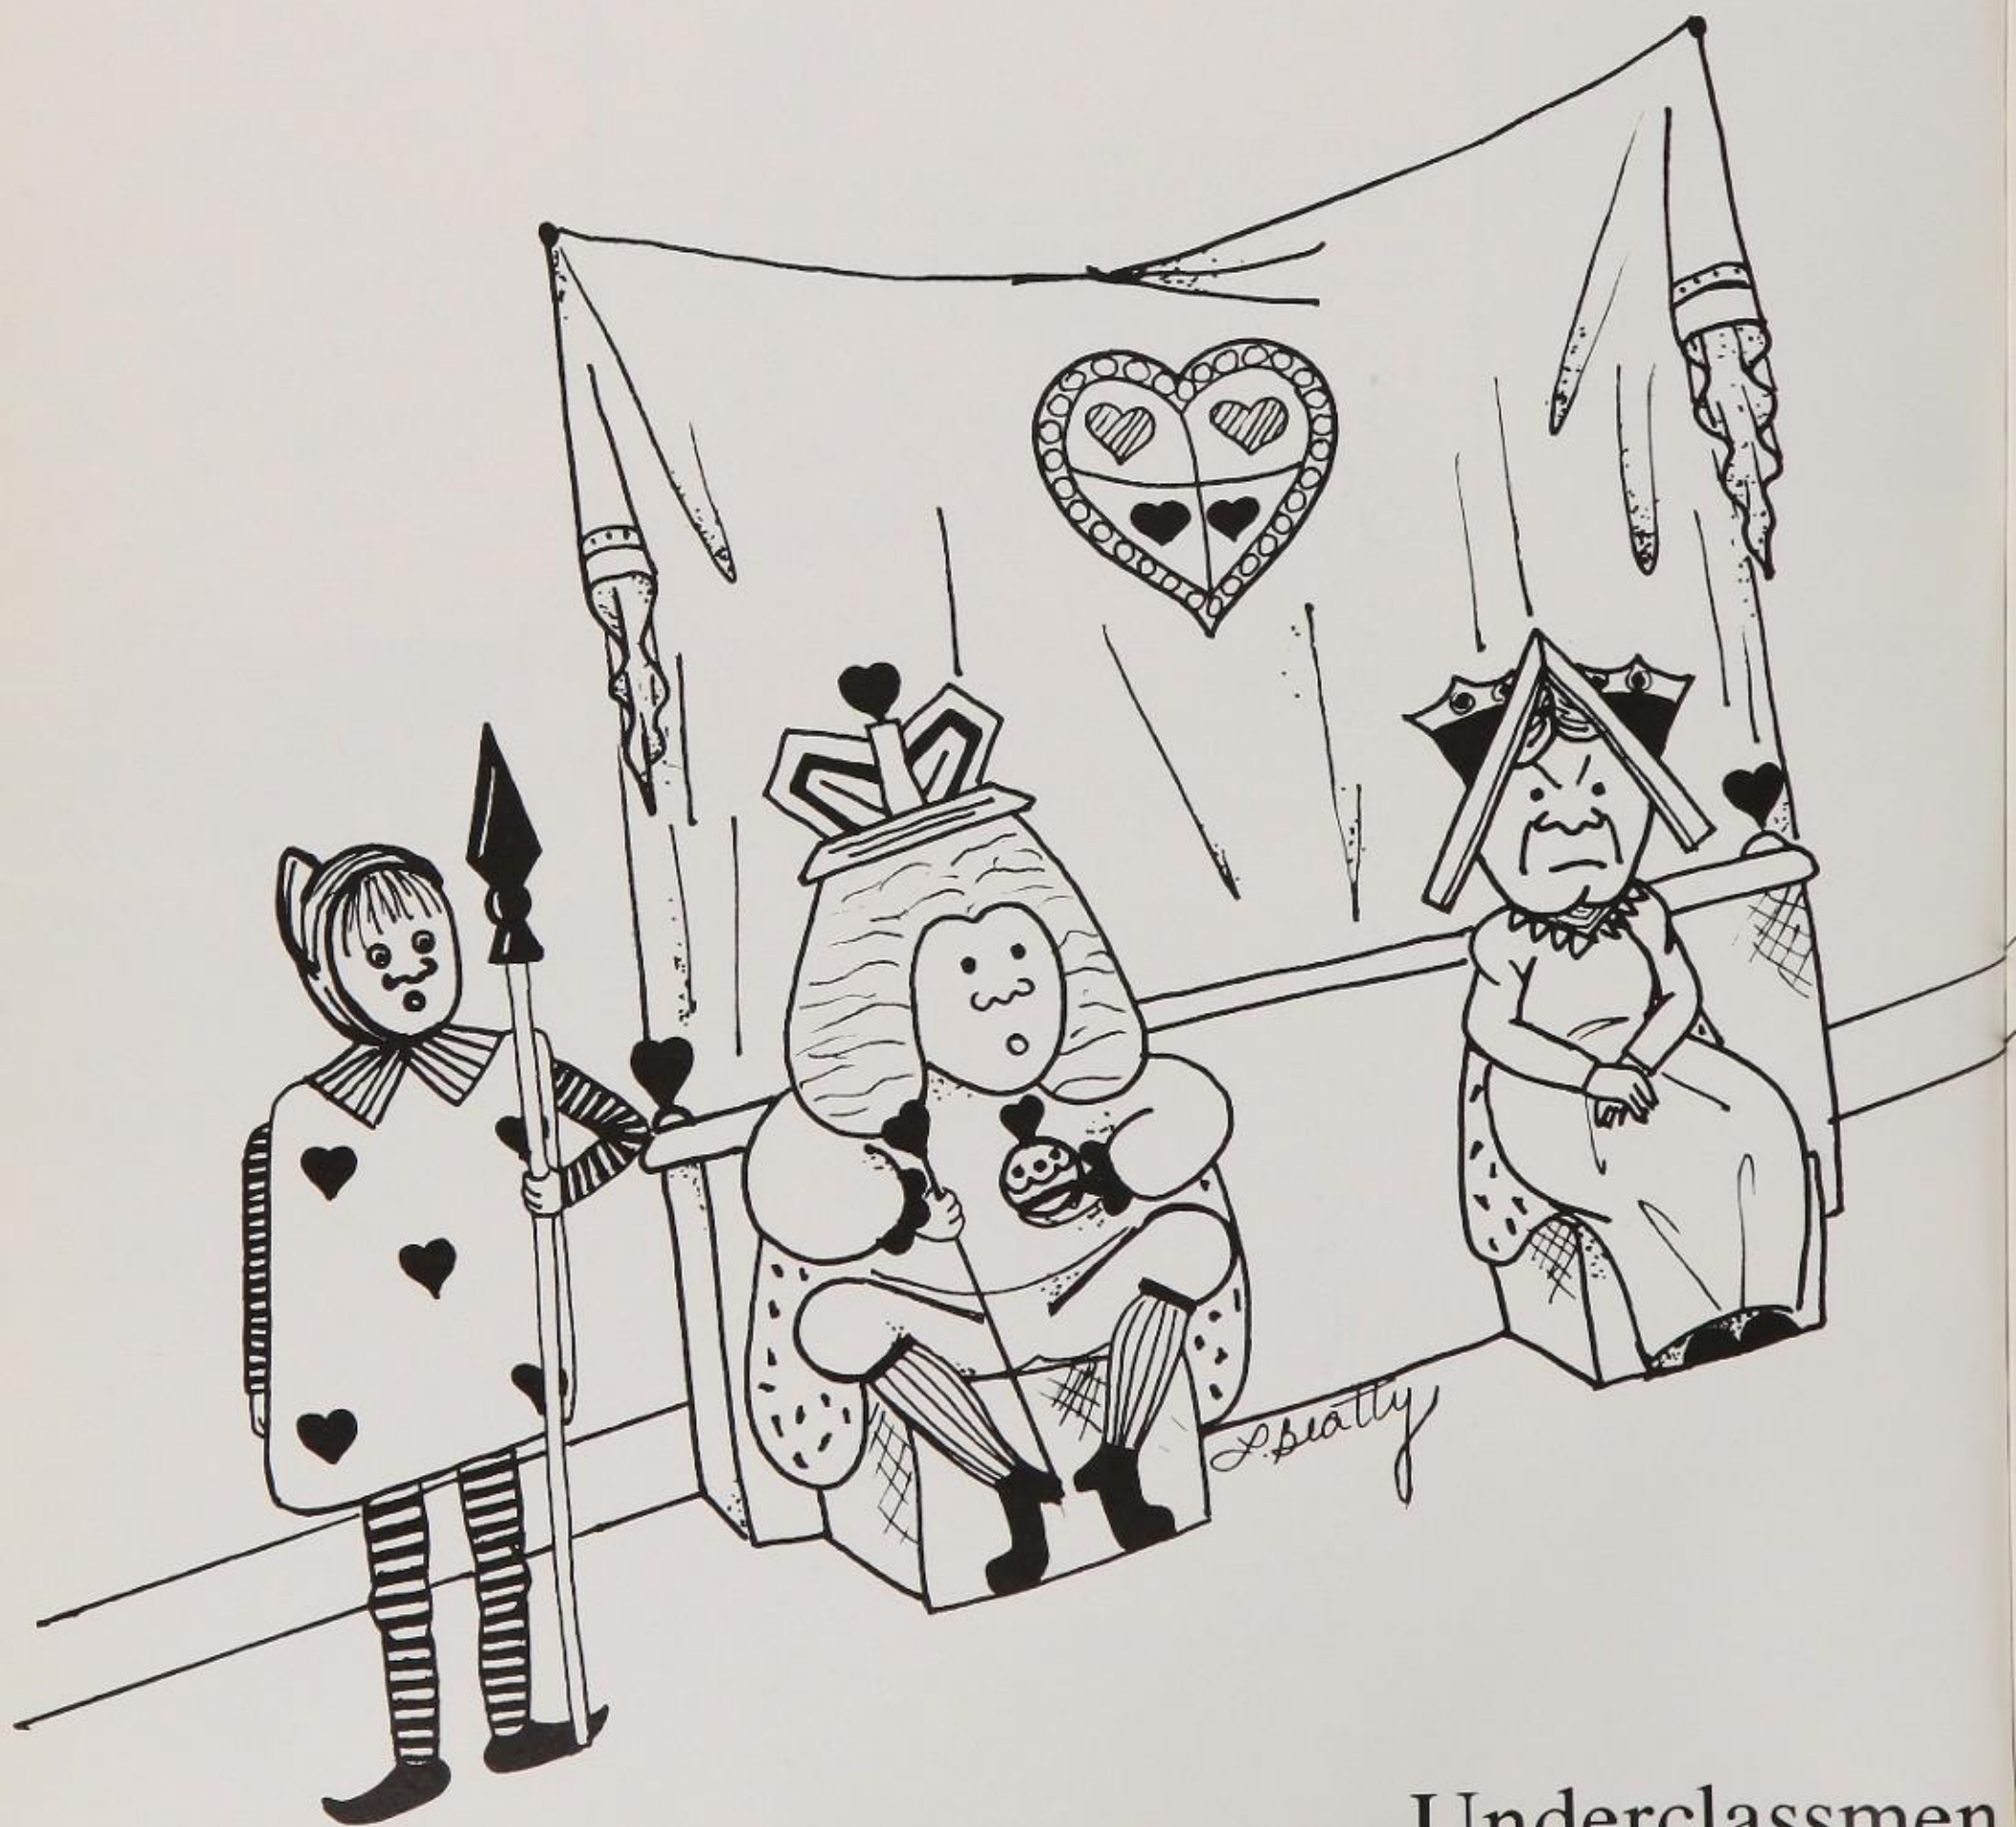

"I wish you wouldn't squeeze so," said the Doormouse, who was sitting next to her. "I can hardly breathe."

"I can't help it," said Alice very meekly: "I'm growing."

"You've no right to grow here," said the Doormouse.

"Don't talk nonsense," said Alice more boldly: "you know you're growing too."

"Yes, but I grow at a reasonable pace," said the doormouse: "not in that ridiculous fashion." And he got up very sulkily and crossed over to the other side of the court.

Activities

The table was a large one, but the three were all crowded together at one corner of it. "No room! No room!" they cried out when they saw Alice coming. "There's plenty of room!" said Alice indignantly, and she sat down in a large arm-chair at one end of the table.

"Have some wine," said the March Hare in an encouraging tone.

Alice looked all round the table, but there was nothing on it but tea. "I don't see any wine," she remarked.

"There isn't any," said the March Hare.

"Then it wasn't very civil of you to offer it," said Alice angrily.

"It wasn't very civil of you to sit down without being invited," said the March Hare.

"I didn't know it was your table," said Alice: "it's laid for a great many more than three."

"Your hair wants cutting," said the Hatter. He had been looking at Alice for some time with great curiosity, and this was his first speech.

"You should learn not to make personal remarks," Alice said with some severity: "It's very rude."

HOW LONG HAVE I KNOWN
YOU NOW? I CAN'T REMEMBER
WHEN WE MET. I GUESS I REMEMBER
YOU BEST FROM THE SUMMER SCHOOL WE WENT TO, THAT WAS A SPECIAL SUMMER IN MY LIFE, ONE THAT I WILL NEVER FORGET. I THINK I LEARNED A LOT, NOT JUST ABOUT ART, BUT ALSO ABOUT MYSELF. REMEMBER PAST?
WE GOT TO BE GOOD FRIENDS UP-
STATE, AND ALTHOUGH I KNOW IT CAN NEVER COME BACK, IT DOESN'T DEPRESS ME. YOU'RE ALWAYS AROUND TO SAY
HI TO & IT WILL BE SAD NOT TO SEE
YOU IN THE ART ROOM
NEXT YEAR. I WISH YOU
GOOD LUCK IN WHATEVER YOU DO AND I KNOW THAT YOU WILL REACH YOUR GOALS- WHAT-EVER THEY MAY BE. KEEP IN TOUCH. "GOOD LUCK"

"What is a Caucus-race?" asked Alice.
"Why," said the Dodo, "the best way to explain it is to do it."
First it marked out a race-course, in a sort of circle, and then all the party were placed along the course, here and there. There was no "One, two, three, and away!" but they began running when they liked, and left off when they liked, so that it was not easy to know when the race was over. However, when they had been running half-an-hour or so, the Dodo suddenly called out, "The race is over!" and they all crowded round it, panting, and asking, "But who has won?"

"Everybody has won," said the Dodo, "and all must have prizes."

I think only Debbie Waldron's face expresses it more eloquently. Since I have no sentimental sap to write because I know two such similar people will meet time + time again throughout life, in bars, saunas, discos, nude beaches, etc.

Tennis

Now to recall some unforgettable moments:
 Our head on collision in center field in JV softball.
 Our fabulous tennis games.
 Rowing out at Orient.
 Dinner at the 9 doors (How un-couth we were).
 The week of your birthday (which one of us died more??)
 Everything in my booster to you.
 Driving my car.
 Getting mad at Beth at the same time.
 All our letters to one another.
 Our great role models Steinfeld, Osika, Hunch, Wells, Rousseau, MS Featherston, Dr. Sheridan, finally Mr. Swenson.
 They taught us so much about life!

Why are these boys so pale?
They spend so much time indoors wrestling.
We're not really pale, just a little wasted from celebrating!

Dear Lid,
Since Meserve says I can't be specific and Schutzman claims
I can't generalize, I'm not sure what I can say. However, we spent a lot of time, arguing, talking, teasing, and helping each other and I really enjoyed your presence. If you go to the Harvard-Penn wrestling match you will definitely get a much better picture!

"Now, what do you want to buy?"

"To buy!" Alice echoed. "I should like to buy an egg, please. How do you sell them?"

"Fivepence farthing for one — twopence for two," the Sheep replied.

"Then two are cheaper than one?" Alice said in a surprised tone, taking out her purse.

"Only you must eat them both, if you buy two," said the sheep.

"Then I'll have one, please," said Alice.

“And now for the last brook, and to be a Queen! How grand it sounds! The Eighth Square at last! Oh, how glad I am to get here! And what is this on my head?” she exclaimed in a tone of dismay, as she put her hands up to something very heavy, that fitted tight all round her head.

“But how can it have got there without my knowing it?” she said to herself, as she lifted it off, and set it on her lap to make out what it could possibly be.

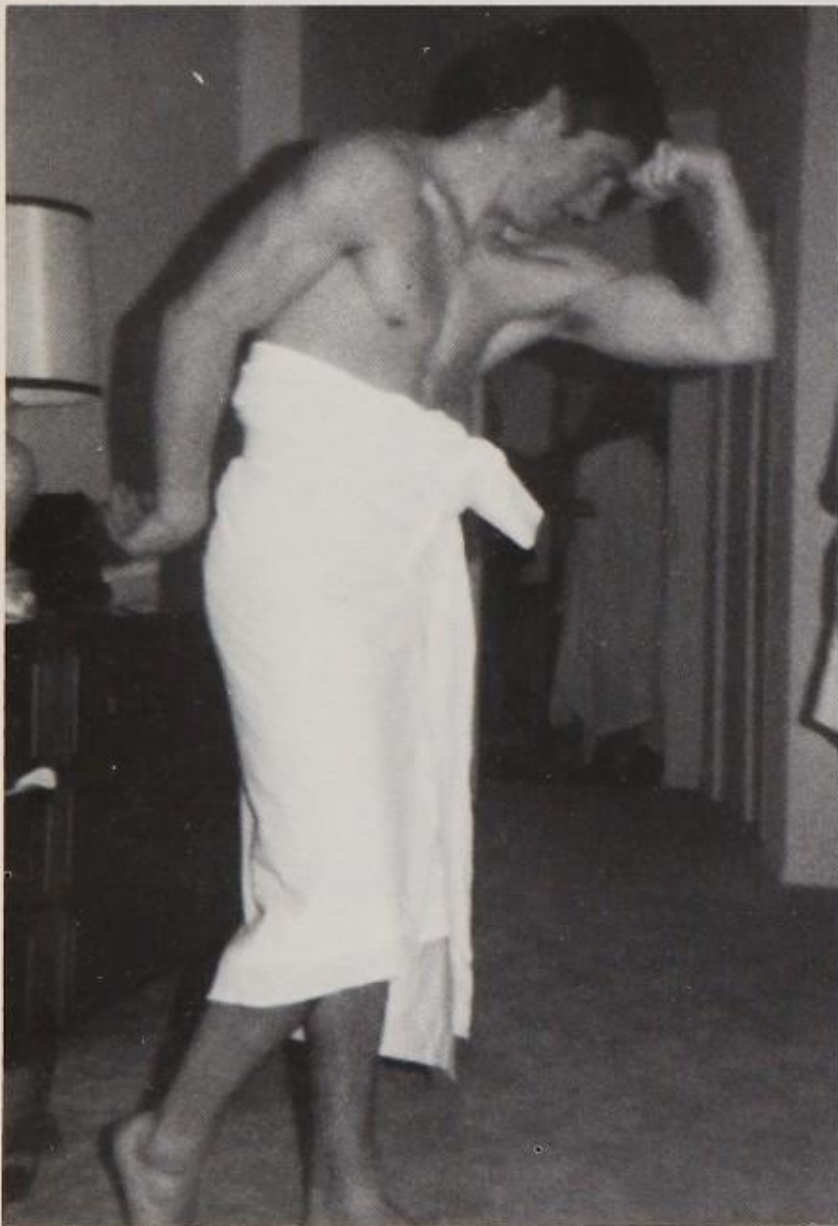

It was a golden crown.

"He's dreaming now," said Tweedledee: "and what do you think he's dreaming about?"

Alice said, "Nobody can guess that."

"Why, about you!" Tweedledee exclaimed. "And is he left off dreaming about you, where do you suppose you'd be?"

"Where I am now, of course," said Alice.

"Not you!" Tweedledum retorted indignantly. "You'd be nowhere. Why, you're only a sort of thing in his dream!"

"If that there King was to wake," added Tweedledee added, "you'd go out — bang! — just like a candle!"

"I shouldn't!" Alice exclaimed. "Besides, if I'm only a sort of thing in his dream, what are you, I'd like to know?"

"Ditto," said Tweedledum.

"Ditto, ditto!" cried Tweedledee.

He shouted this so loud that Alice couldn't help saying "Hush! You'll be waking him, I'm afraid, if you make so much noise."

"Well, it's no use your talking about waking him," said Tweedledum, "when you're not real."

"I am real!" said Alice, and began to cry.

"You won't make yourself a bit realer by crying," Tweedledee remarked: "There's nothing to cry about."

See how easy it is for me to undo your labors.

Good Luck in the future.

Try to remember me as something more than an inscription.

"If I wasn't real," Alice said — half laughing through her tears, "I shouldn't be able to cry."

"I hope you don't suppose those are real tears?" Tweedledum interrupted in a tone of great contempt.

Dear Lydia,
 I really don't know what to say to a person who has figured so greatly in the last two years. It began in Stengel's Physics Class,
 but who can say when our friendship will end?
 How would you like me to name one of my never-to-exist
 children "Lydia Louise"?

"Now," said Alice, "let's consider who it was that dreamed it all. This is a serious question, my dear! It must have been either me or the Red King. He was part of my dream, of course — but then I was part of his dream too! Was it the Red King? Oh do help settle it!"

Do You Think
It Was?

Dearest Lydia,

I figured that since you wrote on this page in my book by right this whole page should be mine. So here I go. Of all the years that I've met people you were by far one of the people I wanted to become friends with. You are truly a person who is her own person. A beautiful Sense of humor and the warm atmosphere you give off is irresistible! Now It's the last year of H.S. and I feel you are one of the best, no may I say the best friend I've got. The experiences we've shared have been wonderful. You've seemed to (I don't know what got into me. I just started to write script) recall lots of fond memories. Give me a minute to think of some you didn't recall. All of the fake arguments we got into. We always said that we would do it in front of people but we always seemed to bust out laughing. Remember talking about the teachers and their faults! Remember talking in Gibberish. Remember laughing at Gillian and almost Dropping dead from laughing so hard and there are so many others. Our relationship has been so special that it will never be forgotten but will be told to friends of mine in my future years. I certainly hope we can see each other during the summer because you won't be able to get rid of me! I hope ~~that~~ That you will get everything you want in life because you certainly deserve <sup>over</sup>...

Lydia,
you ignorant slut. I was glad to have you in my video class, even if you did get me kicked out.
C.B.

Lydia-

Where shall I begin to summarize everything ~~there~~ we've been through. I must say I'm sorry we've grown apart, but it was inevitable. You have always heightened my awareness, & opened my eyes. This wasn't quite how I wanted it to come out, but I'll have to do. I love having you for my friend.
Ja de da.

Love always & forever,

Pegi

...it! What else can I say but I love you dearly and probably won't meet anyone like you again. Thanks for all the laughs and sharing a part of your life with me! Keep in touch!
Love always

Joe

Dear Lydia

Oh gee, we're gonna miss you. Knowing & being friends with you has been very much an advantage for me. You're not only a nice considerate person, but are extremely funny one.
Please don't forget me & try to come visit in Boston. We'll have a great time! Take care & God Bless. Bye
Love Always,

Dearest Lyd -

I don't want this to be - but it will have to. It's so hard to write the things I hope you already know
I feel.

Always you are there not always in front but after you waded your way through the crowd
you are there. I love all the times I've spent with you the walks, the ice creams, cat & dog fights, eating those ~~go~~ gooey white candies, drinking tea and eating the honey & lemons on the steps of Maginnes Ha.
